Recommendations

business should maintain its profitability by regularly monitoring revenue, operating expenses, and profit margins while using monthly sales trends to improve forecasting and planning. High-performing products, particularly KidJoy Toys, should receive priority in inventory management and promotional activities, while lower-performing products should be evaluated for possible improvements in pricing and marketing. Regional strategies should focus on maintaining strong sales in Central Luzon while introducing targeted promotions and marketing campaigns in regions with lower revenue contributions. To strengthen customer retention and acquisition, the business should implement loyalty rewards, personalized discounts, referral programs, and first-time purchase incentives. Increasing the average order value can also be encouraged through product bundles, cross-selling, and minimum-purchase discounts. Furthermore, the business should investigate the causes of order cancellations and improve inventory accuracy, order processing, payment coordination, and delivery communication. Finally, the dashboard should be updated regularly and enhanced with additional performance indicators to help management monitor progress, identify emerging trends, and make informed business decisions
